

THE PAW OF THE TIGER

ASL SCENARIO F

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Russians win immediately by exiting one AFV with functioning MA off the west edge provided there are no mobile German AFV on board 2 during the Player Turn in which the Russian AFV exits or (regardless of the presence of mobile German AFV) by exiting seven AFV with functioning MA off the west edge.

SOUTH OF LENINGRAD, RUSSIA, 12 January 1943: Throughout the winter of '42-'43, the Soviets launched repeated attacks to relieve the siege of Leningrad. The hard-pressed Germans rebuffed one attack after another, but in so doing, their lines became progressively thinner. Finally, the Germans had to develop a trip wire defense of light local forces, backed by a "fire brigade" mobile force, which was quickly dispatched to the inevitable breakthrough sector. Such a fire brigade was 1st Company, schwere Panzer Battalion 502, with ace tanker Cpt. Hans Bolter, who was called upon to halt a major Russian armored incursion by a full battalion of the 122nd Tank Brigade.

BOARD CONFIGURATION:
